REPUBLICANS GAIN A VOTE

The Effect of Deboe's Election Upon the Senate.

CORBETT'S CHANCES SMALL

The Oregon Aspirant Not Likely to Be Seated-Republican Secators Will Probably Insist Upon Being Given the Secretaryship of the Scuate-Kentucky Patronage.

The action of the Kentucky legislature yesterday in ending the long struggle in ate by the election of a Senator to succeed Joe Blackburn was a matter upon which Republicans about the Capitel congratulated themselves. It does not change situation with respect to the filling of the committee vacancies, for an agree ment has been reached on that question, and if the Republicans were to attempt to evade the compact that has been con cluded it would result in a fillbuster that rould brook ill for the success of the tariff bill, which, to the Republicans, is of vastly more importance than any mere mittee vacancy or chairmanship.

changes the status of the Republican vote In the Schate to some extent, and, with the vote of Mr. Kyle, the South Dakota Populist, who has never denied that he will act with the Republicans on all ques lions except the subject of free coinage, pives them 44 votes, or one-half the Senite as at present constituted. The Vice vote but no sane man believes the Demo crais would permit any political subject to come to a vote until the vacancy in Florida has been filled. As soon as that is filled the Republicans will need one more vote than they can at present muster The legislature of Florida convened on the 7th of April, and expires by limitation within sixty days. If no election results within that time a different aspect will doubtless be given to the situation.

Mr. Deboe will report here at the earlies ent, and add one more vote for the tariff bill, which will probably be reported to vie full committee by the time he takes his seat. An effort will be made to seat Mr. Corbett, the appointee of the governor of Oregon, not with the hope that he will be scated, but rather for the pur-pose of convincing that governor that his appointee cannot be scated, and inducing him to call an extra session of the legislature. Politicians who have kept in touch with the situation in Oregon, say that the ernor intends to call an extra session in the fall, but if the Senate acts adversely to Mr. Corbett, he will convene the genera assembly earlier. If this is done, the friends will be elected to succeed himself. This, of course, would give the Republicans forty-five votes, and votes, and carry with it the absolute control of the Senate on a tie vote, and probably result in a reorganization of the elective officers of the Senate.

The vote on the Mantle case, which is almost identical with that of Mr. Corbett, shows the absolute hopelessness of favorable action on Mr. Corbett's claim to his seat on the certificate of the governor of Oregon. When the vote on the Mantle cope was taken August 28, 1893, he was defeated by a vote of 31 to 29. The fol-lowing opposition Senators now in the voted in favor of giving him his Jones of Nevada, Morganof Alabama, Pettigrew of South Dakota, Roach of North Dakota, Stewart of Nevada, Teller of Colorado and Turpte of Indiana, the latter of whom was paired in favor of seating Mantie. It is not expected that any of these gentlemen will now vote to seat Mr. Corbett, for various reasons. Of the Repub-licans who voted against Mr. Mantle the following may be named: Aldrich of Rhode Island, Collom of Illinois, Hale of Maine, Gallinger of New Hampshire, McMillan of Michigan, Merrill of Vermont, Platt of Connecticut and Proctor of Vermont. At least four of these will not change their votes, so that it appears to be impossible for Mr. Corbett to be seated. The gov-ernor of Oregon will, therefore, it is argued by Republicans, be forced to convene the legislature in special session or assume the responsibility for the absence of full representation of his State in the Senate of the United States.

The election of Deboe will, however, strengthen the position of the Repulsicans in their demands for a division of the elec-tive officers of the Senste. They will now he more insistent in their coming interview with Mr. Gorman relative to the proposition that the Republicans be given the secretary ship of the Senate, and the chances are that they may speceed.

To the crowd of hungry officeseekers in Kentucky the election comes as a relief. It gives them the prombe of good things long deferred. For some weeks the Re dicans of Kentucky have been given to nderstand that no patronage should go to the State until an election had been accomplished. Now that this result has been reached, the hungry and thirsty for office will be more than clamorous ab the pie counter. It has been said that Mr. Hunter withdraw from the race and made this election possible under pressure from use. The President told him that if he withdrew and threw his support to some one who would be elected he (Dr. Hunter) should control half the patronage of the State just as if he were a United States Senator. This bargain will, doubt less, he lived up to by the President, and ach the White House on an equal foot-

TIME TO DISCUSS TARIFF

Democrats Asked to Reduce Their Demands to a Minimum.

SHEARING THE HOUSE BILL

Wool, Hides and Sugar the Schedule Yet Hudisposed Of-Absurd Yarn About Allowing Rebates to Countries Favoring International Bimetallism.

The Republican members of the Senate Committee on Finance will hold a conference with their Democratic associates to morrow morning, for the purpose of ascer taining how much time the Densocrats will want to consider the tariff bill in full com mittee, and for the further purpose of inducing them to reduce the time asked to

It was definitely decided yesterday that the bill should not be submitted to the full committee until next Monday. According to the present program it will not be made public until after the full committee has passed upon it, although it is feared it will be almost impossible to keep the provisions of the measure an absolute secret after its contents have been divulged to thirteen men. A vote on this question will be had when the full committee meets. Had the Democrats agreed to permit the bill to be reported to the Senate without delay it would have been given to the press Monday morning.

The story published yesterday that the subcommittee had been, or would be, forced to accept a proposition made by Senators Welcott and Jones, to the effect that a rehate of 15 per cent on all duties should be allowed to all countries that join with the United States in affecting international bimetallism, was denounced by the committee last night as ridiculous.

"The whole story is absurd on its face. said Senator Wolcott, who was indignant over the fact that his name had been coupled with the alleged proposition. "It is ab surd and incapable of operation for several reasons, "continued the Senater. "It would be in violation of the most favored nation clause, if nothing else. The proposi-tion has not even been considered by the mmittee. It can be stated that the committee has definitely disposed of every schedule, ex-cept those covering wood, hides and sugar, and on each of these tentative propositions ere pending, one of which will be agreed to as soon as the vote is taken. The wool men will get practically what they want and a duty will be put upon hides. The sugar schedule will show a slight increase in the lower grades. Each of these que tions, it was said last night, could be settled in five minutes when the time for voting arrived. The proposition to abrogate the Ire wallan treaty has been discussed at length, and while Senator Aldrich and at least one other member of the subcommitte is known to be in favor of the scheme, it is not believed that the committ will agree to it, or that the Senate and House would concur in that action. Were it not that the present Administration looks with a friendly eye upon the Ha wallan islands and the movement for their ultimate annexation has already commenced, the abrogation of this reciprocal treaty would probably secure the neces sary votes. With respect to the whole bill, it may be stated with positiveness that it has en shorn of much of its inconsistency and made more nearly what its name implies—a revenue measure. Many of the paragraphs of the House bill were so high that revenue will be lost, by reason of the rates being prohibitive of importations. Some of the rates of the Dingle; bill have outdone the act of 1890 These things have, it is claimed, been corrected, so that if the bill, as amended by the Senate, becomes a law, it will raise much more revenue than is now in sight. By placing a duty on wool, hides, lumber and lead ore the committee bas not only followed Republican lines, but has strength ence the bill among the Western men an reduced the antagonism of the boiting silver Republicans to a minimum. All of these things enter into the trade of the Western States largely, and the people of those States have demanded their protection. A duty on bides was the last concession made and granted in the face of the mos vigorous opposition in the East.

A prominent Democratic member of the committee said last evening that the minority should insist upon sufficient time to consider, not only each schedule, but each paragraph. Inasmuch as the Recans have taken six weeks he thought they would be entitled to at least two. They should not, he said, be captious in their criticism of the measure, but should offer such amendments as they believed stood a reasonable chance of being adopted. The minority had no intention of delaying action, but if any effort was made to avoid giving the Democrats a fair show Senator asserted that the minority would find the proper way to protect its rights and enforce its demands. There must, he continued, be plenty of time, both in the committee and in the Senate, for careful consideration, but not one moment would be employed by the Democrats in useless obstruction.

When the court reconvened at 7:30 Attorney Ford made a brief at gument in behalf of the prisoner, and Com onwealth Attorney Lode spoke for more than half an hour, going into the merits of the case. He made a strong impression upon the jury.

At 8:25 the jury retired, to their room while a crowd of 300 people waited eager ly and patiently inside and outside the

Fifteen minutes was the general opinion as to the time within which an agreement would be cached. Outside the militia tramp-ed backward, and forward on all sides of the courtbouse

Inside the crowd discussed every phase of the situation. Five, ten, fifteen minutes passed, and the crowd began to get un-easy. Everybody feared the jury was again hung, and it was. Thirty minutes passed and they called for water, and by the crowd anticipated that they would be unable to agree. Things began to look more serious. During this time the prisoner sat unconcerned between guards, and ap peared at perfect case, and unconscious of Sheriff Gordon, anticipating trouble, took his position belieful Lewis to prevent the rope from being thrown around his neck. He had good cause for alarm. But a few steps away from the crowd stood a man with a suspicious looking bundle. In it was a rope, knotted and greased, seady for use. Every man in the crowd carried gun, and only waited for the signal. Twenty-three minutes more passed, and the report came that the jury stood eleven for hanging and one for imprisonment.

This was followed by intense excitement. The man with the rope moved toward the prisoner and the crowd fol-lowed. In five, yes, three, minutes more Lewis would have been swung from the balcony in the courthouse. Sheriff Gordon was consulting with Lieut. Wingfield and the militia was about to enter the court room. In this three minutes the jury was advised of the situation, and promptly reported that they had agreed, after fifty-five minutes' deliberation.

When the jury had filed in and taken their seats, Judge Lipscombe requested that the verifict be received in silence. Its request, however, was not heesied, for when the clerk rend the decision a shout went up which shook the waits of the historic old building.

Lewis received the verdict without any apparent emotion or concern and expressed no opinion, except that he was innocent. He was immediately taken back to jall, while the crowd and attorney marched up and congratulated the jurymen. Lewis will be sentenced tomorrow morning at 10 clock. place within thirty days, but will unloubtedly be carried out after the expiration of that time.

General satisfaction is expressed at the final outcome of the trial and crowds have been marching up and down the streets shouting. At 12 o'clock everything was quiet and the militia had been withdrawn.

It will return to Charlottesville tomosrow morning. The presence of the military today prevented the typebby of another negro. and it was only by the prompt action of cooler heads that Tom Burden, one of e witnesses, was not strong up to the nearest tree in the courtyard. The people had lost none of their de termination to see Lewis hung, when, shortly before 3 o'clock this afternoon, a crowd standing in front of the courtse waiting for the third trial to begin sighted the Monticello Guards, forty strong, from Charlottesville, marching up from the station, in command of Lieut. Herbert Wingfield Comment was being freely made upon the action of the gov ernor in sending the troops, when the negro asserted with much bravado that the "boys in blue" would protect the prisencd to lynch a man would now saik to their homes. "Those bloodthirsty white men," continued Burden, "will now get some builts themselves if they attempt to harm Lewis."

This was too much for the indignant people to stand, and after two or three itizens had been insulted, the mob seize him, and several shouted, "Hane him." was being carried away by about twenty men, when Sheriff Gordon and several others interfered and induced the crowd to release the man. The negro then ran away, and was last seen hastening toward Alexandria, where he lives.

Aside from this disturbance everything was comparatively quiet today. One of the most remarkable legal procedures ever enacted in the State of Virginia has or curred since the case was begun here Monday. The fact that a man has been tried for his life three times during the past three days without the adjournment of court is a judicial proceeding which is probably without precedent. There were practically no new features in the third trial, which began at 3 o'clock this after onon. Through Interpreter Louis Kmits Mrs. Reidec again repeated the sad story of the assault in a most straightforward and convincing manner. The poor old lady is scarce able to stand alone, and had to be assisted in and out of the courtroom. ing her condition critical. All of the testinony heretofore adduced was brought out again today, and Lewis himself occurred he major portion of today's trial, being on the stand for nearly two hours. He told a desultory and incomprehensible story, About 7 o'clock the case was completed, and the court took a recess. A mob of 200 at that hour stood ready and organized to beseige the courthouse, and take the negro, in case there was an unfavorable condemning Gov. O'Ferrall for his action in sending the troops here. There was no call sent to him asking for help, either from any of the authorities or the citizens. Frank Johnson, of Maple Mills, the distinate Juryman in the second trial, has seen threatened with all manner of vengeance, and threats were freely made of long him bodily harm.

He was practically chased out of the rillage this morning, when it was known

Gen. Ordway Moves Officers and Commands.

BATTERY A IS DISMOUNTED

The Famous Troop A Is Dishanded. Mutterings of Discoutent and the Reasons for It-Promotions of Patthful Officers-Separate Course panies Are No More.

The practical reorganization of the District National Guard by Gen. Ordway is just now the topic of general discussion one the aditary men of the city. Some of the soldiers have been promoted, other orsolidated and some have had their ser rices dispensed with entirely. In the latter category is that always picturesque Presidential guard.

There is already some talk that Troop A, which has been one of the three separate companies, will disband only so far as obedience to the order is concerned and will maintain itself as not only a separate, but as an independent organization. There are thousands of people in Washing on who who would like to see that propo stion on accomplished fact, but it is rather early to say what will be done so for as this command is concerned.

The lightning has struck Light Battery , also, and left its members in not the stagreeable frame of mind. They held a ecting last night, and like good soldiers, went to work cheerfully to carry out the preliminary orders of Gen. Orders They dismantled their guns and made ready to send away to Bridgeport the carriages, which are to be remodelled for a "foot" hattery. This company will hold a meeting next Wednesday night to determine its future. The order has not been received with acclaim. On the corwave it is said the sampen of the mon that they did not enlist as members of a foot attery, but as a mounted battery. They say that they do not know of an ch arrangement as that which is pro posed by Gen. Ordway, except in fortifica ons where batteries are worked by fool better equipped battery anywhere than out their sixty men and forty horses with n two hours and a half after notice. The ompany desires to meet the cavalry in ent before long, and it is probable that this will be one of the subjects to be discussed at the meeting next Wednes day night. The change from the mounter to the foot service will, however, be the ain topic of debate. Capt. Fosberry was asked last night that would be the outcome of the change He said that it was a matter of individual pinion, and that the company would not et until after a full meeting. There were only forty present last night. will probably be present to a man at the coming meeting. The temper of some of those who are kicking at the change may be had from the statement of one of the men made last night that he'd be, etc. if he would be caught playing horse on the streets of the capital of the nation at the rear end of a national cannon. All the orders, and duties of the men as stated. wever, have been done as a company in splendid spirit of obedience.

The borse on parade in the district or in encampment appears to be the cause of most of the important changes. The apough to warrant the keeping of a stand ing army of horses, and it is the experience that the borses ought to be trained nearly as well as the man, to be effective when they are needed for emergencies. The horse is considered to be an expensive luxury. 'The "horses and dragoons" are about one-thirteenth (a very unlucky num er in this case) of the brigade, and it has been estimated that they cost about one-fourth of the whole militia fund. They have also been regarded as more ornamental

The foregoing are the matters of most general interest. The change in A Battery, it is said, will make the only foot battery in the United States, the innovation being after an English practice. The equipment of the battery as to guns will be the same as heretofore, but more lightly mounted. Other changes refer to the consolidation and the interchange of positions, by which reward for long and faithful service. Some of the more important changes i the general staff are: Commissary General McIntire to be quar-termaster general; Chief of Ordnance Neumeyer to be commissary general; Quarter-master General Tierney to be chief of ordnance; Inspector General Alexander to be colonel of the First Regiment, in place of Col. Moore, resigned; Capt. Ourand to be inspector general; Major E. L. Smithmeyer, chief of engineers, and Capt. Thomas Singleton resign, leaving vacancies to be filled by promotion.

. Company reorganizations and battalics consolidations are as follows: The Cyclist tollop as Company D. The Third Sens rate Company disbanded some time agso that now there are no separate com-panies in the National Guard. This fact al lows the engineers to be organized into Second Separate Battalion, to be composed of A, the sharpshooters; B, the ertificers; C, the scientific engineers, and D, as above noted. The new plan will cult for commissioned officers, in lieu of the ting officers heretofore in command. In the First Regiment the companies of the Third Battalion are transferred to the Second Battalion, thus giving the regiment two battalions under the commi of Col. Alexander.

A similar consolidation takes place in the Second Regiment Major Bartlett, of the Sixth Battalion, has resigned, and his wo companies, A and B, will be known as Company B in the Fourth Battalion, to be commanded by Capt. Horsford. The Fifth Battalion is to be supplied with a major on account of the Major Suesa.

A special of Companies C of the Fourth, B of the Fifth, and C of the Sixth on May 3. This is important to the comp named, because only two of them will be

The changes contemplated, and which will be officially announced later, will so occupy the attention of the men and officers that the spring inspection will not be held, but it is not unlikely that there will be one in October and two every year

The reorganized National Guard will go into camp on June 10.
